NOTE A -- BUSINESS DESCRIPTION AND SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

This summary of significant accounting policies of G. W. Sherwold Associates, Inc. (the Company) is presented to assist in understanding the Company's financial statements. The financial statements and notes are representations of the Company's management who is responsible for the integrity and objectivity of the financial statements. These accounting policies conform to generally accepted accounting principles and have been consistently applied in the preparation of the financial statements.

Business Description -- G.W. Sherwold Associates, Inc. is a SEC Registered Investment Advisor and a NASD broker/dealer of securities, in accordance with Section 15(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. In May, 1997, it became licensed by the National Association of Securities Dealers. The Company acts as a correspondent with a re-introducing firm that in turn has an agreement with another organization that facilitates clearing transactions. Transactions are introduced on a fully disclosed basis, and all books and records pertaining thereto are maintained pursuant to SEC Rule 17a-3 and 17a-4. The Company is located in Lake Forest, California and does business primarily in South Orange County.

Cash and Cash Equivalents -- For purposes of the balance sheet and statement of cash flows, the Company considers all unrestricted investment instruments purchased with a maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents.

Allowance for Doubtful Accounts -- The Company has adopted the allowance for doubtful accounts method of accounting for losses from uncollectible accounts in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Under this method, an allowance is provided based on historical experience and management's evaluation of outstanding accounts receivable at the end of each year. The balance in the allowance account is zero at January 31, 2007.

Property and Equipment -- Property and equipment are carried at cost. Depreciation of property and equipment is provided using the straight-line method for financial reporting and the modified accelerated cost recovery system for federal income tax purposes. Expenditures for major renewals and betterments that extend the useful lives of property and equipment are capitalized. Expenditures for maintenance and repairs are charged to expense as incurred.

Accounting Estimates -- The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Concentration of Credit Risk -- The Company minimizes its credit risk associated with cash by utilizing high credit quality financial institutions.

The deferred tax assets and liabilities represent the future tax return consequences of those differences, which will either be taxable or deductible when the assets and liabilities are recovered or settled.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments -- The carrying amount of the Company's financial instruments, which include cash, accounts and other receivables, investments, prepaid expenses, and accounts payable and accrued expenses approximates their fair value due to the short period to maturity of these instruments.

ACCOUNTANTS' INTERNAL CONTROL REPORT

To the Board of Directors G.W. Sherwold Associates, Inc. Lake Forest, California

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements and supplemental schedules of G.W. Sherwold Associates, Inc. for the year ended January 31, 2007, we considered its internal control structure, including procedures for safeguarding securities, in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control structure.

Also, as required by rule 17a-5(g) (1) of the Securities Exchange Commission (SEC), we have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company including tests of such practices and procedures that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in rule 17a-5(g) in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness (or aggregate debits) and net capital under rule 17a-3(a) (11) and for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of rule 15c3-3. Because the Company does not carry securities accounts for customers to perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, we did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in any of the following:

- 1. Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications, and comparisons
- 2. Recordation of differences required by rule 17a-13
- 3. Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of the Federal Reserve Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal System

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining an internal control structure and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of internal control structure policies and procedures and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of an internal control structure and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable but not absolute assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit the preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in any internal control structure or the practices and procedures referred to above, errors or irregularities may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

Our consideration of the internal control structure would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control structure that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control structure elements does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted the following involving the control environment, accounting system, and control procedures that we consider to be a material weaknesses as defined above. These conditions were considered in determining the nature, timing, and extent of the procedures to be performed in our audit of the financial statements of G.W. Sherwold Associates, Inc., for the year ended January 31, 2007, and this report does not affect our report thereon dated March 21, 2007.

1. Although a general ledger is maintained in-house, the reporting function is performed by an outside accountant using spreadsheet software. We will insure that the company's books reflect our audited financial statements as of January 31, 2007. Additionally, we have been advised by the President that the general ledger is reconciled to the financial statements obtained from the outside accountant on a monthly basis.

To the Board of Directors G.W. Sherwold Associates, Inc. March 21, 2007 Page Three

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes.

This report is intended solely for the use of the Board of Directors, management, the SEC, the NASD, and other regulatory agencies that rely on rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers, and should not be used for any other purpose.
